

Monday attendance at Fair increases

Reversing a weekend attendance trend, 23,468 persons attended the Missouri State Fair Monday, an increase of 1,792 over Monday of last year. Fair Secretary Ron Jones reported Tuesday.

Jones said this figure did not include the handicapped persons who were special guests of the Fair administration Monday. Their attendance total will be tabulated and figured into Tuesday attendance figures, Jones said.

Commenting on handicapped day at the Fair, Jones termed it "tremendously successful" and added that "from now on, you can be sure we're going to have a handicapped day at the Fair."

Also honored at the Fair Monday were farm families from 103 Missouri counties who were treated to a picnic lunch on Jones' lawn and addressed by Commissioner of Agriculture James Boillot.

"They've been wanting to crack 100 for many years, but this is the first time it's been done," Jones smiled in referring to the record number of farm families coming to Sedalia. "They took a day off from clear across the state and we think that's just great."

Jones singled out Murphy Brother's Exposition Inc. for praise Tuesday, saying he couldn't "complement them enough. They really run a professional show. It's well-maintained and they keep it clean. We haven't had any complaints yet," he said.

Monday judging results included the following winners: "Mr. Uranium," owned by Robert and Maurine Spain, Winfield, was named Show-Me grand champion Charolais bull; and "Aacow," entered by Schearbrook Land and Livestock Inc., Ozark, took the Show-Me grand champion female Charolais honors.

Other winners were "Victorious Sleeper Firecracker," shown by J.P. and Joan Kunkel, Carthage, who won the title of Show-Me grand champion female Jersey; and "Aime Basil Prince," owned by Bruce McCrosky, Billings, who was judged Show-Me grand champion Jersey bull.

First place in the 1973 Missouri State Fair Music Contest piano solo went to Laura Knipp of Tipton, in the 10-year-old and under division.

Other winners in the music contest were Shelly Criswell, Kansas City, for the 11- and 12-year-olds in the piano solo group and Lance and Lisa Lauck in the 12-year-old and under class in the piano duet.

Chris and Mark Wilsdorf, Holliday, Mo., each won their respective age divisions in the 1973 Fair Archery Contest in the 4-H division.

Chris Wilsdorf, 11, won first place in the boys' 10 to 14 age group. His brother, Mark, 17, won first place in the 14 to 18-year-old division.

A primarily youthful audience is expected to jam the grandstand tonight for the Ike and Tina Turner show, a fast-paced presentation geared to contemporary musical tastes. Other activities held Tuesday were quarter horse racing at 8 a.m., harness and pony racing at 1:30 p.m. and a two-mule hitch show at 7 p.m. in the Coliseum.

Looking ahead, Jones said he was anticipating the annual Old Missouri Ham Breakfast scheduled to begin at 8 a.m. Wednesday under the tent on his lawn.

Jones stressed that the breakfast was open to all Fair-goers and not just elected officials. "In the past, it seems that the breakfast has had political connotations, especially in election years, but it won't be like that this year," he said. "We have to keep it free from political overtones."

Events scheduled to highlight Wednesday activities are a grandstand performance by country entertainer Roy Clark at 8 p.m., quarter horse racing at 8 a.m., harness and pony racing at

Fair attendance increases

After a slump in weekend attendance, as compared with last year, the number of visitors to the fair on Monday jumped by nearly 1,800 over last year. Monday was a special day for the handicapped at the Fair and was reported to be "tremendously successful" by Fair

Secretary Ron Jones. Top-name entertainment, including Bob Hope, Roy Clark and Ike and Tina Turner, are slated for the remainder of the week. This aerial shot, taken Monday from a helicopter, looks east over the midway toward the grandstand.

'Routine investigation' by IRS at State Fair

Twenty Internal Revenue agents are conducting what the IRS has termed a "routine investigation" for possible non-compliance with IRS regulations, improper tax reporting and the possibility of kickbacks in past years at the Missouri State Fair.

John Foy, chief of the intelligence division of the IRS in St. Louis, said the agents were here because of the concentration of concessionaires at the Fair and because some of them "might not be at the next fair."

According to some operators of concessions, questions they were asked ranged from general ones to more specific queries about how choice spots were obtained year after year, and whether political contributions were solicited or demanded.

Donald Sweet, Eureka Springs, Ark., who operates a fudge concession at the Fair, said the agents were "probing as to whether I had given out any payola."

Sweet said the agent who talked to him had a questionnaire about three pages long, which the agent wanted him to sign after answering the questions.

"I refused to sign it. I don't mind them asking questions about the price I paid for the booth, but they wanted to know things like my Social Security number and my home phone number. They can get any information they need up in the Administration Building," he said.

According to Foy, the IRS investigation was not launched here because of some specific tip about wrongdoing at the Fair. He also said the recent change in the Fair administration was not a factor. According to Foy, the agents are conferring daily to determine what progress, if any, is being made in the probe. "I don't see us being there more than another two or three days" unless the investigation turns up signs of wrongdoing, he said.

It was reported that among the things being studied by the IRS were last year's State Fair contracts, numbering about 300.

Sources at the Fair said the agents found that about 60 or 70 of these were missing. Foy said he was not ready to comment on this yet. However, indications were that the missing contract situation may have been created by persons who made a down-payment on a contract and then did not return it to the Fair.

Ron Jones, secretary of the Fair, said it was his understanding that the investigation was a fact-finding type of general probe to study concessions contract operations and contracts with entertainers. He explained that it was also his understanding that this was the type of study done throughout state governments when a new administration takes over.

The Fair secretary has reported savings of approximately $60,000 in contracts for the midway carnival, grandstand shows and racing events this year.

New Phase 4 food regulations noted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Director John T. Dunlop of the Cost of Living Council said today the worst may be over for some Phase 4 prices such as those for chicken.

Dunlop also announced that new Phase 4 regulations for the food industry will be announced Tuesday to take effect about Sept. 12.

He told a news briefing that the price per pound of chicken has declined from about 74 cents after the price freeze was lifted in mid-July to about 53 to 55 cents this week.

He said this "supports the view that we should phase things out in the future so that all peaks (of prices) do not come at the same time" and said the trend of chicken prices may be followed by other food and consumer items in Phase 4.

Such developments, he said, are "of some advantage to consumers."

The food regulations to be announced Tuesday will provide for additional pass-through into prices of increased production costs.

The present food regulations went into effect in mid-July. They allow for a pass-through into prices of raw agricultural costs, but not other production costs.

Dunlop announced that last week during the first five days of Phase 4, 67 major firms notified the government of intentions to increase prices after 30 days.

A list of the firms released by the council showed that four major auto companies, 10 steel companies, 2 glass companies and the major copper producers were among them.

The council will hold hearings next week on proposed price increases by the automakers and steel companies.

But Dunlop said that doesn't mean the hearings will be held on all major increase requests from major firms.

Council sources say the action is designed in part to show the public that the administration plans strict enforcement of its new Phase 4 anti-inflation program.

Hearings will be held in Washington Aug. 28 on the auto price increases and Aug. 30 and 31 on the steel price hikes.

The nation's major steel companies, including U.S. Steel, have advised the government of their intentions to increase prices on some steel products by as much as 5 per cent.

Bond, Boillot will attend Ham Breakfast

Gov. Christopher Bond, Commissioner of Agriculture James Boillot and State Fair Secretary Ron Jones will be among the dignitaries on hand for the annual Old Missouri Ham Breakfast at 8 a.m. Wednesday.

Although no featured speaker is scheduled for the $5.50 event, Gov. Bond and Boillot are expected to address those attending. This year's Ham Breakfast price reflects a 50-cent price increase created by the jump in ham prices, a Fair spokesman reported.

It could not be determined how many tickets for the event had been sold. The breakfast will be served on the lawn at the Fair secretary's residence.

Illness hampers court

The recent coronary ailment suffered by Western District Judge John Bluhm Jr. has left the Pettis County Court hampered in its decision making process.

Bluhm's illness, combined with that of Presiding Judge Harry Walch, has left Eastern District Judge E.L. "Red" Birdsong the only full-time member of the court.

Birdsong said Monday that the court can function with two members but not with only one. He said it was his understanding that by himself he could not make any new decisions, but could act on some old business matters and would have the support of the prosecuting attorney.

Walch has been receiving periodic X-ray treatments at Barnes Hospital in St. Louis in preparation for an operation to remove a malignant tumor from a sinus passage. This has forced him to be absent from the court two or three days each week generally.

Birdsong said that beginning next week Walch would be able to serve until a September 4 check up at St. Louis at which time the operation date is to be set.

Prior to his recent heart ailment, Bluhm was admitted to Veretan's Administration Hospital in Columbia August 13 to undergo tests for a circulatory leg ailment.

A spokesman at Bothwell Hospital said Monday Bluhm was in "stable" condition, remaining in the intensive care unit.

Rural Sedalia woman killed in auto mishap

A Sedalia woman, Monnie B. Burnett, 49, Route 2, was killed early Tuesday morning in a one-car accident one mile east of the north-east city limits.

According to the Highway Patrol, Mrs. Burnett was apparently driving north on an unmarked road connecting Booneville and Griessen Roads when she apparently lost control of her 1966 Dodge, skidded across Griessen Road and hit an embankment on the north side of the road. One report indicated she may have fallen asleep while driving.

The Patrol estimated that the accident occurred between 2 and 4 a.m. Tuesday, but the accident was not discovered until around 5:45 a.m. The Highway Patrol was notified of the accident by Sedalia police.

Mrs. Burnett was born at Sedalia, Oct. 27, 1923, daughter of John and Olyn Miller Stevens. She was married at Sedalia, March 23, 1939, to Melvin C. Burnett.

She lived all of her life in Sedalia. She was a member of the Emmett Avenue Baptist Church.

Hurricane Brenda moves into Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Hurricane Brenda moved inland into Mexico today, churning up high winds and strong tides as it crossed the seacoast.

The National Hurricane Center in Miami said the storm hit the Mexican mainland about 30 miles west of Ciudad del Carmen on the southwestern flank of the Yucatan Peninsula.

Reports from Ciudad del Carmen said 52 mile-per-hour winds with gusts hitting 58 m.p.h. buffeted the area.

There were no immediate reports of damage or injuries but the U.S. Coast Guard said it got a distress signal from a ship trying to ride out the storm just before it blew inland.

Shipping in the southwestern Gulf of Mexico was warned to exercise caution until winds and seas subside. The center said high winds and gales extend 150 miles to the north of where the storm hit land.

An advisory issued at noon EDT from the hurricane center said Brenda was drifting south and southwest about 10 m.p.h. and was headed toward the mountains of southeastern Mexico, where it was expected to lose strength rapidly.

But the center predicted heavy rains along the coast and over the northern slopes of interior mountains, giving rise to fears of flooding.

The Coast Guard in Miami said it had picked up a distress signal from the 441-foot Greek motorship Yucatan with 35 men aboard. The ship reported she was just off the Mexican coast and was taking water in one of her holds but could not launch a lifeboat because of the high seas, the Coast Guard said.

The hurricane is the second of the season.

In its progress through the Gulf of Campeche, Brenda generated gales for 150 miles to the north of the storm center and for 75 miles to the south. Heavy rains that could cause dangerous floods were predicted for the coastal areas and northern slopes of the mountains behind the coast.

While below hurricane strength, Brenda brushed the northwestern corner of the Yucatan peninsula on Sunday and headed north-northwest in the Gulf of Mexico.

Council will consider plan on full-time mayor

By DICK JONES
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

A first step toward a compromise on the full-time mayor controversy was taken Monday as the City Council agreed to give consideration to a plan which would allow for a full-time mayor but would not exclude businessmen from seeking office.

Speaking in the pre-council session, Fourth Ward Democrat Lee Garrison made known the results of what he said was a survey of his constituents, from which he said he derived a proposal that would be beneficial to everyone concerned.

Garrison's proposal would call for a full-time mayor but would not exclude such a person from being involved with an outside business. Also included would be a set salary of $800 per month and a stipulation that the mayor spend "at least four hours a day" in his office.

The proposal will be turned over to the ordinance committee for consideration and possible modification. The ordinance committee is chaired by Second Ward Democrat Ira Knox, who was absent due to a death in his family.

Garrison told The Democrat-Capital that the $800 monthly salary would be fixed for the entire term of office and would not be reviewed while the mayor was serving his term of office.

Garrison said his survey was taken over a four-month period in which he polled about 175 to 200 persons in his ward on their interpretation of what the April proposal would mean.

Monday, Garrison told the council: "I feel like I've conducted enough of a survey to come to a conclusion." Garrison said he had found a number of people "were confused," and that while a majority of people had voted for the full-time mayor plan "hardly anybody wanted to deprive anyone from running for mayor if they wanted to."

Mayor Jerry Jones told the council that Garrison's proposal, or one similar, could be the answer to the full-time mayor controversy, which has been a subject of discord in recent meetings. "I personally see nothing wrong with a businessman running for mayor," Jones said. Jones went on to tell the council that he would accept some blame for the way in which the April proposal was written.

Third Ward Democrat Carl Franklin also favored the Garrison proposal, but suggested that some flexibility be allowed on spending a certain amount of time in the mayor's office each day. "A businessman could very possibly do this job," Franklin said.

Second Ward Councilman Raymond Bales opposed Garrison's proposal, later explaining he believed the salary mentioned by Garrison was "too high."

"I think it should be less because it will be an elected office," Bales said. He declined to specify what he thought would

Lonely widow has 42 'service' calls

Dear Ann Landers: I am in charge of maintenance for a large luxury apartment building in this city. The problem is a well-heeled widow in her early 60s. We have a record of her "requests" for service and last month she called 42 times. This month her requests will exceed that number.

She asks for someone to come up and move a piece of furniture, replace a light bulb, repair a leaky faucet, check the intercom system, "do something" about her TV reception, "do something" about her noisy refrigerator, "do something" about the draft from the windows, etc.

When the men go up there they have a devil of a time getting out. She always has the table set for two and asks them to sit down for coffee and a sweet. Yesterday she invited the window washer to stay for lunch.

This morning the electrician told me he is sure she disconnects and unscrews things so she can call somebody to come and fix it. What can be done about her? She's a non-stop talker and nobody wants to go up there. — Big J

Dear J: The poor lady is lonely but it is not up to the building to supply companionship for widows. Tell her she is entitled to X number of service calls a month and after that she will have to hire outside help.

Dear Ann Landers: Our 18-year-old daughter is in love with a boy whose past reads like a nightmare. Broken home, stealing, reform school, drugs and alcohol. She was a fine girl until she met this boy, but for the past two years her life has consisted of lies, evasions, crying and nerves.

Now that she is through high school I wonder if we should stop fighting this thing and let her go with him. She has continued to see him on the sneak and we know it. We can't discuss it anymore. If the subject is brought up she says, "It's my life and no one can tell me how to live it." She is an intelligent girl and has plans for college. His future is very unpromising. He couldn't get into any college even if he wanted to, which he doesn't. His present job consists of sweeping floors.

There is no end to the headache caused by her mad passion for this boy. Her brothers, both older, have tried to talk to her. Her friends have tried to make her see the problems she will face if she continues to go with him. Nothing seems to help. Seeking professional help is not the answer. We tried that, too.

Should we give up and let her go with him freely so that the forbidden does not seem so magical? — Another Sad Mother

Dear Mother: A girl 18 is old enough to pick her own friends. My guess is that when you stop attacking her selection she will no longer need to defend it. This is often the case with girls who take up with undesirable company. She'll probably drop him when she feels she can do so of her own volition and not because YOU want her to.

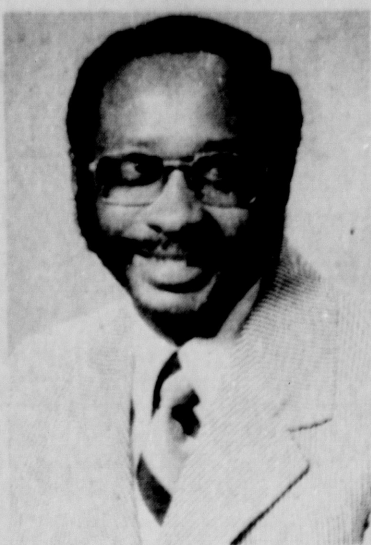

Annie Old Kid: Here we go again. I refer to your nutty views on guns. I have hunted since I was 12. I have never shot a gun carelessly or caused an animal to suffer. Some of the beef you eat was the result of a smack between the eyes with a sledge hammer, or a knife through the jugular.

Give us hunters equal time. Don't take our guns away. — Michigan

Dear Mich: Relax, Sport. I don't want your hunting guns. I'm after the Saturday night specials — the handguns that are killing thousands of innocent people. Those are the murder weapons I'd like to see melted into scrap iron.

Food is among items taken from a home

Camping items and foodstuffs were reported stolen from the Morris Hinken residence, rural Green Ridge, between 9:45 a.m. and 12:15 p.m. Sunday. Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax reported.

Fairfax said the camping items were taken from a camping trailer parked near the Hinken house. He said packages of corn and pork were taken from a freezer on the back porch of the residence. Entry to the house was not gained, Fairfax added.

Demand said cause of shortage

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Officials of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., say a shortage of beer has been triggered by a "demand greater than any experienced in the history of the brewery."

A spokesman for the firm said Monday, that the brewery, the largest in the world, has had to ration beer at the wholesale level in spite of capacity production at nine plants across the country. Anheuser-Busch makes Budweiser, Busch-Bavarian and Michelob beers.

"We're doing everything we can to fill the pipeline," a company spokesman said, "but the demand is unbelievable." He said the breweries have been operating at a capacity of 29.5 million barrels of beer annually. The firm's announcement last month of plans to discontinue production of Budweiser malt liquor was an early indication of the shortage, the spokesman said.

Professor is ordered reinstated

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The U.S. Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals has ordered that a former associate professor of political science at the University of Missouri at Columbia be reinstated and given back pay.

The appeals court decision Monday reversed a U.S. District Court decision that upheld the university's decision to fire Dr. Patrick T. Dougherty in February 1971 for his part in a protest in St. Louis.

Dr. Dougherty had protested the participation of the school's marching band in the 1970 Fall Festival parade by lying down in the street in the path of the band.

Bond and Symington will attend opening

MARSHALL — Gov. Christopher "Kit" Bond and Sen. Stuart Symington will participate in the grand opening ceremonies scheduled for Sept. 15 at the new multi-million dollar Wilson Co. hog slaughtering and processing plant here.

Operation has begun at the plant but the Sept. 15 date has been set for dedication ceremonies which will include an open house, free hot dogs, and an appearance by Henry Hite, the "Wilson Giant" who at 8-feet, 2-inches is billed as the world's tallest man.

Symington will join Wilson Co. officials at a special luncheon sponsored by the Marshall Chamber of Commerce held in the Student Center on the campus of Missouri Valley College prior to the 2 p.m. dedication.

Bond will preside at the 11 a.m. ceremonies which include the unveiling of a giant sign at the plant.

Harry Barger, senior vice president of Wilson's, and a native Missourian, was instrumental in the selection of Marshall as the new plant site while serving as President of Wilson Certified Foods, Inc., a former subsidiary of Wilson's.

The Marshall plant reportedly includes the latest in meat packing and processing equipment as well as an environmental quality system.

More than 200 persons are currently employed at the Marshall plant. Total employment at the plant will be approximately 400 when peak capacity is reached, according to General Manager Donald E. Rutter.

The plant is located on Route 20, one mile west of the U.S. 65 bypass.

Handicapped woman is self-sufficient

Mrs. Juanita Crystal, 1720 South Brown, took advantage of the Missouri State Fair's Handicapped Day Monday to share her ideas and know-how with other handicapped persons.

"It's easy for me to find out how to do things. Some people don't have the ingenuity," she says.

"When I first started learning, I didn't have the ideas of the University of Extension to help me."

The University Extension, along with Mid-Missouri Association of the Blind and Handicapped, set up her display in the Home Economics Building at the Fair.

Along with University literature and magazines for the handicapped, plans were available for construction of simple aids to help the disabled to be self-sufficient in their own homes.

Persons without the use of one hand can make sandwiches with a breadboard which has a rim at the edge to hold the bread in place. A plywood stand can be made to hold a mixing bowl in place while stirring, or to hold a pot handle stationary on the stove top for stirring. A tool with many uses is a large pair of wooden tongs, handy for reaching things from high shelves or across a table for a person in a wheel chair.

A slide show, "Homemaker on Wheels," featuring Mrs. Crystal, is available to groups through the Extension. In it, she shows how a wheel-chair ridden person can sweep, mop, wash dishes, set table and cook, among other things, and shows how a home can be specially designed for a disabled person.

(Democrat-Capital Service)

GREEN RIDGE — Mr. and Mrs. Milton Lazenby, Green Ridge, observed their 40th wedding anniversary Sunday with an open house hosted by their children. Approximately 95 relatives, friends and neighbors attended.

The couple's granddaughters, Nancy Wright, Janet Wright and Janet Wright served cake, punch and coffee and had charge of the guest book. The door was attended by one of their grandsons, David Wright.

The gathering was preceded by a family luncheon at Flat Creek Inn, with about 25 attending.

Roll-top desks remain hot items

By JEAN BARNES

The roll-top desk has been highly romanticized in recent years. While there still seems to be an abundance for collectors they are "hot" items in antique shops and second-hand stores. They usually sell at formidable prices.

The roll-top is generally thought of as an American design but it actually had its beginning in France. Its inventor is unknown. The earliest roll-top was of a cylinder type in the possession of the French crown in 1760.

Most of these earlier desks were of solid wood cylinder design. A few were fitted with tambour frames. These were elegant desks, elaborately inlaid with a marquetry of woods and decorated with ornate moldings.

It was an extremely practical desk, to be preferred above the bureau type or the writing table. It was commodious and papers (or clutter) could be hidden instantly by closing the top.

Seashell art ideas needed for display

By POLLY CRAMER
Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — I have collected a large number of seashells in various sizes and conditions and would like some ideas for using and displaying them other than the conventional labeled display case. — HELEN

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with those women who pay for their groceries with checks. Others have to wait in line while these disorganized women ask what date it is and whom to make the check out to. Why don't they make the check out at home so they would only have to fill in the amount? Better still, it seems the big supermarkets could have a special line for such people since the checks have to be OKed, too. This certainly would save a lot of time for us busy women. — LORENE

DEAR POLLY — My answer is for the reader who has a fiberglass lamp shade with an odor. I found that using a smaller watt bulb eliminates the odor. About 60 watts seems right. Those of 100 watts or more overheat the fiberglass and seemingly cause the odor. However, this sometimes presents the problem of not having quite as strong a light as you would like. — RITA

DEAR POLLY — While helping paint a picnic table I got paint in my hair and found the handiest and quickest way to remove it was with toothpaste. Sounds crazy but it really worked. — L.L.H.

DEAR POLLY — I am sure there must be other girls who have struggled getting sandwiches into plastic-type sandwich bags. My great idea is that after a sandwich is made, I slip my spatula under the sandwich, lift it up and insert it in the bag with no trouble at all. — YVONNE

DEAR POLLY — I have been sewing for myself and others for a long, long time. Recently while making a pair of slacks for myself I began to think that there had to be a simpler way to insert elastic around the waist. I had been making a casing at the top, measuring the elastic and threading it through the casing and then fooling around to remove the twists before sewing the ends together. I decided to measure the length of the elastic, overlap the ends and stitch together before making the casing. I placed the elastic band inside as I sewed the facing, being careful that it did not get caught in the stitches. When the casing was in so was the elastic and it was so easily done I wondered why I had never thought of this before. I hope other ladies who make their own slacks will find this a quicker and easier way. — WILMA

Phelps confident court will rule in his favor

Lt. Gov. William Phelps said Monday he is confident the Missouri Supreme Court will rule in his favor in the case stemming from his forcible ejection from the Senate earlier this year by Sen. William Cason, D-Clinton, president pro tem of the Senate.

"I think it's very clear in the Missouri Constitution. Since 1821 the lieutenant governor has presided over the Senate whenever he chose," Phelps said to members of the Rotary Club at their luncheon meeting at Bothwell Hotel.

In response to newsmen's questions whether he will run against Sen. Thomas Eagleton in 1974, Phelps said, "I have no plans. I'm just trying to be the best lieutenant governor Missouri has ever had."

Phelps gave a detailed account of his ejection from the Senate, saying, "the lieutenant governor, being an independently elected official, has the right to represent all the people. I believe the constitution selected me to exercise independent judgment as to who should be recognized from the chair."

He said the dispute is scheduled to be argued before the Supreme Court Oct. 19.

Commenting on the government reorganization bill recently vetoed by Gov. Christopher Bond, Phelps said the legislature's bill was "exactly opposite" of what the State Reorganization Commission, appointed by Gov. Bond, had intended.

"It not only tied his (Bond's) hands with too much bureaucracy, but allowed second and third appointments of division heads."

be a more proper salary, saying he "wanted to discuss the situation more," before making a decision.

In an expected move, the council gave final approval to the repeal of the one-dollar garbage collection fee currently in effect. First Ward Republican Don Broadbuss cast the only opposing vote on the issue. Broadbuss later said he was opposed to the move because the $90,000 revenue the tax collected could have been of value "in other areas." Broadbuss said such money, this year, could have gone toward a new consolidated fire station.

The council's formal session began with a discussion of a re-zoning petition by Charles Patton, 2006 South Marvin, who sought a zone, classification change to accommodate an auto shop on a tract of land south of 20th street and west of Marvin, near the Sedalia Junior High School. The council upheld a Planning and Zoning Commission recommendation to deny the request.

Lawrence Koeller, chairman of the Planning and Zoning Commission, told the council that Patton was requesting "spot zoning" and that the proximity of the tract to the junior high school could possibly lead to later problems of commercialization.

A zoning change was granted to Carl J. Meyer, Riverside, Calif., for the purpose of allowing an apartment house to be built at Ninth and Merriam.

The council also gave final approval to a revised city license fee schedule. The new rates were recommended earlier by City License Inspector Bob Brown, who said they would provide a more equitable fee schedule.

In other action, the council approved the drawing of an ordinance to prohibit parking on the east side of Massachusetts between 10th and 13th streets. The move was made to allow a free flow of two-way traffic, it was learned.

Four bids for metal pipes to be used by the city's sewer department were turned over to the sanitation and sewer department for consideration.

A letter of resignation was also read and accepted from J. R. McNeese, who resigned from the Sedalia police department Aug. 9.

1:30 p.m., and the world championship mule competition at 7 p.m.

In the open Hampshire ram show Monday, Glen Armentrout, Norborne, won blue ribbons for his grand champion pen of three yearling ewes and for his "best pair" ram and ewe.

Armentrout, who won several reserve championships, had his toughest competition from the Moundridge, Kan., team of Gillmore and Wedel which showed the Grand Champion Hampshire ewe.

The Kansas pair also showed the grand champion Hampshire ewe lambs, grand champion young flock one ram, two ewes and two ewe lambs, and grand champion pen of four lambs.

In the Oxford open show Monday afternoon, Charles Burruss, Jamestown, showed both the grand champion ram and ewe. Joe Bill Reid, Houstonia, showed reserve grand champion ram and ewe.

In the Brown Swiss cattle show, "Hunziker Red Boots Charger," owned by the Hunziker Red Boot Farm of Kahoka, was judged the Show Me grand champion Brown Swiss bull, as well as first place yearling bull. The animal was also named Show Me grand champion and senior champion female, as well as garnering first place in her event.

Hunk Hunziker also showed the first place two-year-old cow, which was also reserve grand champion female. The first place three-year-old cow, first and second place aged cow, best dairy herd and best produce of dam cattle were also from the Hunziker farm.

Jones said the IRS agents confirmed earlier they would be questioning concessionaires who had negotiated contracts with previous Fair administrators while the concessionaires were all centered in one location, rather than forcing the IRS to travel throughout the state.

W. C. Askew, the former Fair secretary, was not available for comment. However, his wife said Askew so far had not been contacted by IRS agents.

Jones said, "I don't think they're here because they might feel there's some preponderance of past wrongdoing. I believe this is just a general type of probe, much like the one being conducted within the Department of Revenue at this time. I assume that when other state administrations change, the IRS conducts a similar review of practices."

Wendell Smith, concessions superintendent at the Fair, said his office was being "absolutely cooperative" with the IRS investigators.

Agnew schedules news conference

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's office announced today that Agnew will hold a news conference at 3 p.m. EDT.

A spokesman for the vice president did not say what, if any specific purpose the press conference had.

In Baltimore, meanwhile the chief judge of the U.S. District Court of Maryland says Agnew can't be subpoenaed to testify before a special grand jury investigating alleged political corruption.

Police find businesses broken into

Two overnight break-ins, both discovered by police on routine patrol, are under investigation.

Thieves broke into Ken's Michelob Inn, 18th and Ohio, sometime late Monday or early Tuesday and pried open a racing game machine, taking an undetermined amount of change. They also pried open a cigarette machine, with an unknown amount of change and cigarettes taken, and made off with an undetermined amount of change from a cash register.

According to police reports, a police officer found evidence of a possible break-in at the rear door of the business. A further check by the officer revealed some glass broken from the front door in an apparent effort to unlock the door and gain access to the building.

An attempt was also made to pry open a juke box and soft drink machine, it was reported, but the thieves were apparently frightened away by the appearance of the police officer.

The Missouri Bowl, 105 South Missouri, was the target of burglars sometime Monday night or early Tuesday. An officer on routine patrol spotted a window broken on the front door of the business and the owner, Robert Woodall, 514 Sunset Drive, was called. A check of the building revealed that an unknown amount of money from a cigarette machine had been taken along with $8 in half-dollars. The broken window on the front door was valued at $25.

In other police news, Paul E. Thompson, West Plains, Mo., reported to police that his 1973 Ford pickup was stolen from the Ramada Inn sometime before 5:14 a.m. Tuesday.

Sedalia man is charged in shooting

Ira Lee Cochran, 23, Pettis and Osage, was arrested by Sedalia police at 2:45 p.m. Monday after a warrant charging him with assault with intent to do great bodily harm had been filed against him just hours before in Pettis County Magistrate Court.

Police Chief William Miller said Cochran was arrested when he walked into the police station, evidently unaware that a warrant had been filed against him.

Cochran is in the Pettis County jail in lieu of $7,500 bond. He is scheduled to be arraigned in Pettis County Magistrate Court Wednesday morning.

Cochran is charged with shooting a .22 caliber firearm at William R. Lewis, 22, 318 East Johnson, early Saturday morning. Lewis suffered an apparently minor gunshot wound below the right shoulder. He was treated at Bothwell Hospital and released after the incident.

Cochran was originally taken into custody by police after the shooting and then released Sunday morning after he was held the maximum 20 hours without charges being filed.

Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming conferred with the shooting victim Monday morning before deciding to file charges against Cochran.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Pretzels were originated by a monk in northern Italy around 610 A.D. The World Almanac says. The first pretzels were made of dough baked into little figures representing children, with arms folded in prayer. The monk called them "pretiola" which is Latin for "little reward" and gave them to children who learned their catechism.

China mobilizes 'Little Red Soldiers'

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA News Analyst

WASHINGTON — In China of late there's a new push on for the organization of Little Red Soldier groups, begun originally at the height of the Cultural Revolution, and now being revived.

Cromley

Example: A Sian radio report discloses 50,000 children in the province became Little Red Soldiers in the first five months of 1973.

Example: In Nanning, a Little Red

Here, children, mainly 7 to 14, are organized on a military basis in regiments, battalions, companies, platoons and squads. Membership extends down to 5-year-olds. Preference seems to be given to worker-peasant families.

Soldier organization has been set up in every one of the 176 primary schools.

The Little Red Soldier groups hold criticism meetings and run exhibitions. They are regularly given education in ideology and the "correct" political line. They attack the "ultra-rightist" approach of the "counterrevolutionary revisionists."

They give marionette shows depicting "heroic images of new socialist Chinese children's ardent love for Chairman Mao and the party." They run primitive weather stations and make forecasts, publicize party health programs and perform "social community labor."

A Hong Kong China watcher comments that the aim apparently is to create a generation of highly-organized and disciplined children "whose regimentation under the authorities matches that of their elders in many respects."

As part of the program, kindergarten children are being groomed intensively "to meet their responsibilities." In nurseries, children have been organized to study Chairman Mao's quotations, to hear revolutionary stories, to receive class education, to study revolutionary traditions and do a little public service labor.

The publishing business is also mobilized. In Kwangtung Province, the People's Publishing House this past year turned out 26 million copies of 92 children's readers, including color cartoons which provide class education and relate the deeds of Chinese children in the war against Japan and in Mao's takeover of China, stories of Vietnamese children in the "struggle against the United States" and of Palestinian children in their fight against the Israelis.

The State Council Cultural Group on June 1 put out a special publication on literature and art for juveniles and children with songs and stage acts "reflecting the ardent love of young people for Chairman

Mao, the Chinese Communist party and the motherland... for labor and collectives... and their ideal for becoming workers, peasants and soldiers when they grow up."

A People's Daily (newspaper) commentary dated June 3 stresses that socialist literature and art for juveniles and children "constitutes a battlefield of the class struggle in the ideological sphere which brooks no neglect."

The most chilling experience in this writer's eight months in the Communist areas of China almost three decades ago was seeing firsthand the rigid propagandizing of children (and adults, too) in everyday life through books, plays, dances and songs. The propaganda was thick and pervasive — everywhere. It seemed impossible to escape.

And one wondered what must happen to minds growing up with nothing else to see or hear.

A conservative view Restraint is up to all of us

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — Let me come back to one key passage in the President's address to the nation Wednesday night. Mr. Nixon did not say everything that ought to be said about Watergate, for a vast deal remains to be said. But he did lay down in lucid language what ought to be done.

Kilpatrick

Ultimately, he said, the answer to Watergate does not lie "merely in the jailing of a few overzealous persons who mistakenly thought their cause justified their violations of the law." Rather — and this is the point — an answer lies "in a commitment by all of us to show a renewed respect for the mutual restraints that are the mark of a free and civilized society."

What are these "mutual restraints"? Some of them, obviously, are the restraints that society has written into law — the law, for example, that makes it a felony to commit burglary, or to lie under oath, or to obstruct the processes of justice. It was the failure of highly placed men to observe these familiar restraints that produced so much of the Watergate scandal.

Yet the restraints of criminal laws, necessary as they are, constitute perhaps the least of the mutual restraints that mark a free and civilized society. Of greater importance are those unwritten rules for judging human conduct — rules that never can be precisely defined — by which we are moved to say that a given act is unfair, unsporting, indecent, dishonorable, or simply wrong.

This was the tragedy of Watergate. If there had been nothing more than the breaking and entering of Democratic National Committee headquarters, the incident could have been put behind us months ago. The country suffered more than two million burglaries last year, and this was among the least of them; no one hurt, no one threatened, no goods of intrinsic value stolen. In passing, it ought to be said that the crushing sentences imposed upon the Watergate defendants — sentences ranging up to 45 years — are monstrous examples of a lack of judicial restraint. The harshness of these sentences is unrelated to the nature of the crime.

The burglary can be put to one side. Other aspects of this sordid affair are sadder and more serious. Let me single out one among many: the infamous "enemies list." This was the plot concocted by White House aides to use the FBI and the Internal Revenue Service, among other agencies of government, to cause trouble for political and journalistic foes. Implicit in the scheme was an outrageous abuse of the presidential power, an abuse not to be minimized by the defensive explanation that other Presidents have done this sort of thing before.

There was the drafting and the mailing of phony letters about Senators Muskie, Humphrey, and Jackson. The acts may not have been criminal, but they surely were wrong. We have yet to learn the full story about the pressure applied to prospective contributors to the President's re-election campaign. The pressure may have stayed nicely on the windward side of the law — it may have stopped short of indictable extortion — but the charge of indecency does not have to be proved beyond a reasonable doubt. The pressure was indecent.

Mr. Nixon himself lost sight of the needed restraints. It was not unlawful, we may believe, for him to bug his telephones and conference rooms. Was it fair? Was it sporting? Was it honest and aboveboard? He knew his conversations were being recorded; his guests did not. Were these busy little bugs among the marks of a free and civilized society?

The President said that "all of us" should make a commitment to show a renewed respect for these qualities of life. The "all of us" embraces the Senate committee, which from time to time has seemed to be composed of seven district attorneys. The term surely embraces those elements of the press that have wallowed happily and hypocritically in the Watergate mess.

It is time, as Nixon urged anew, to put this thing behind us, to leave crimes to the courts, and to leave needed new laws to the Congress. The damage done by Watergate is not beyond repair. It can be undone in part by the firm commitment he has made for himself and his administration. The rest of the rebuilding, I submit, is up to "all of us."

Curtailing the car in the center-city

There seems to be a growing trend toward reclaiming the downtown areas of cities from the automobile and returning it to the people.

According to the Chicago Daily News, Paris recently took the latest step in this direction by boosting parking meter fees to 2 francs (46 cents) an hour.

Other cities have taken similar steps to actively discourage use of the automobile in downtown areas. These include London, The Hague and Bologna, Italy.

"Pedestrian only" streets have been established in several West German cities and in Copenhagen, Denmark. In this country, New York and Minneapolis have experimented with restricting certain streets to buses and taxis.

The aim of these and other plans is to restore the human dimension to downtown shopping areas, which have become literally choked with traffic in many cities. Carbon monoxide concentrations in some center-city zones often reach alarming levels.

At first such drastic steps were resisted on the grounds that the people would be unduly inconvenienced and merchants would suffer. But public opinion surveys in Britain, France, Sweden and Germany have revealed that the public supports car-less downtowns.

Merchants also are finding that instead of cutting into business, such measures to limit automobiles can result in more pedestrian traffic and increased sales.

It may not be the whole answer toward making life in the city a little more bearable, but it looks like a beginning.

Subsidies on wheat bonanza for dealers

By JACK ANDERSON and LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — A handful of giant grain companies reaped $333 million in federal subsidy payments at the same time that they were making windfall profits from sales in the Russian wheat deal.

The massive sales profits grabbed off by the wheat barons have already been documented; the traders bought cheap on the basis of private information, then sold dear when the magnitude of the deal drained wheat supplies. Their shenanigans helped drive up the prices of meat, dairy and bakery goods.

Now, the Senate Investigations Subcommittee under Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., has documented how the grain merchants chiseled the taxpayers through subsidies.

A secret staff memo meant for Jackson's eyes only asserts that "the export subsidy program cost American taxpayers $333 million in agricultural subsidies in connection with the Russian grain deal." Much of the gouging was accomplished through dubious paper transactions.

Under the export subsidy system, the government pays the U.S. seller the difference between the high price he could get in the U.S. market and the lower price he would get from the foreign buyer.

For example, if the seller could get $3 a bushel in the United States, but only $2.75 in Europe, the government pays the U.S. seller 25 cents a bushel. The government promotes such deals to improve our balance of trade and bolster the dollar.

At the time of the Russian wheat deal late last summer, subsidies had soared to 47 cents a bushel — the difference between the U.S. price of $2.10 and the foreign price of $1.63. The Jackson memo details how the grain companies used this situation to collect massive amounts in subsidies by clever manipulation.

"For example, we have information that one company (Cargill) sold wheat to its wholly-owned South American affiliate (Tradex-Panama). The company collected the subsidy when it showed proof of shipment to its affiliate.

"The affiliate then sold the wheat to another affiliate in Geneva which thereupon made a final sale for $2.20 (a bushel) or 10 cents above the American price."

In other words, Cargill sold wheat to its affiliate in order to cash in on the high subsidy. Then Cargill made a profit when its affiliate sold the wheat. The profit was recorded by the foreign affiliate, and sheltered from U.S. taxes.

"As far as we can tell," Jackson's investigators marveled, "the wheat never left the ship on which it was originally loaded, and all transfers were mere paper transfers."

"This practice was repeated numerous times as (the Department of Agriculture) blindly maintained unnecessary subsidies which pushed up the price of wheat and ultimately the retail cost of food to the American taxpayer."

Footnote: A Cargill spokesman conceded to our associate Jack Cloyerty that transactions with affiliates occurred, and that subsidies were collected. He defended the system as necessary for the United States to compete on the world market. He denied that Cargill had profiteered.

SPOOKY CENSORS — So far, the Central Intelligence Agency has successfully blocked publication of a CIA expose by ex-agent Victor Marchetti. Now, State Department censors are trying to get a copy of the manuscript from its co-author, John Marks, formerly a State Department employee.

Among the manuscript's secrets: the CIA ordered an informal boycott of a Chinese restaurant in Washington because "Jack Anderson is one of its owners." (In fact, I have a small interest in a Chinese restaurant.)

The book also discloses CIA "spooks" in Chile and CIA misuse of funds.

WATERGATE MUSIC — Seattle's KIRO radio has banned a humorous record called "Haldeman, Ehrlichman, Mitchell and Dean" by a group called "The Creep."

The ban was ordered after calls were received by the station attacking John Ehrlichman, who has just resettled in Seattle with his family.

The station explained to us it feared the record ("Just when we were getting to be well-to-do, the Watergate turned into our Waterloo") might stimulate assaults on the former White House aide's family or prejudice action by local lawyers to disbar him.

TYPEWRITER CRUSADER — The taxpayers of College Park, Ga., have been rendering unto Billy Graham that which is the College Park High School's.

Despite the separation of church and state, the school shipped off 25 of its typewriters to Atlanta for temporary use in Graham's crusade. School principal Joseph Bostardi explained it was "a valuable community service" which he would gladly repeat.

BELLI TO HANOI? Famed lawyer Melvin Belli tells us he will fly to Hanoi to get copies of all POW prison records if the U.S. court martial his ex-POW client, Marine Lt. Col. Edison Miller. Miller is charged by another POW, Navy Rear Adm. James Stockdale, with cooperating with the Communists.

Mayberry, Busby spark Royals, 6-2

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Does John Mayberry's two hits, including a homer and two runs-batted-in, for Kansas City in its 6-2 triumph over the New York Yankees Monday night mean the big slugger is out of his slump?

"We hope so," says Royal Manager Jack McKeon. "We've been looking for him to break out."

Mayberry, a 23-year-old left-handed power hitter, hopes so to. "I just try to hit the ball," says the 6-foot-3, 220-pounder. His homer off Mel Stottlemyre, 12-12, in the fourth came "off a slider," as did his run-scoring single off reliever Wayne Granger in the seventh.

McKeon said Mayberry's dip in the last month is due to a combination of pitchers not giving the hitter a good ball to hit and the fact that "he's so damned anxious for a good pitch he'll swing at anything."

Mayberry, who leads the AL in walks with 100, would say only, "I just keep swinging." He now has 93 RBI.

The Kansas City victory broke a four-game losing streak and raised Steve Busby's record to 12-11. Busby was working on his first shutout since his no-hitter against Detroit April 27 until the Yanks scored twice in the ninth.

"He just ran out of gas," said McKeon. "But I had confidence in (Doug) Bird."

With one out and two men on base, Bird got Gene Michael to strike out and Horace Clarke to ground into a force out to chalk up his 12th save of the season.

Kansas City decided the contest in the second when the Royals scored four runs. With one out, Ed Kirkpatrick doubled to left-center and went to third on Lou Piniella's fly out.

Kurt Bevacqua and Fran Healy followed with singles and advanced on an error. Both scored on Fred Patek's single. Cookie Rojas then singled, sending Patek to third.

The Royals then engineered a double steal, with Patek scoring.

Bobby Murcer opened the New York ninth with a double and, after Ron Blomberg walked, scored on a single by Graig Nettles. Blomberg went to third on a force out and scored on an error by Mayberry. Bird then took over to stifle the Yanks.

Jefferson City is eliminated from BR play

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — East Anaheim, Calif., and Beaverton, Ore., scored victories Monday night in the Babe Ruth Baseball World Series.

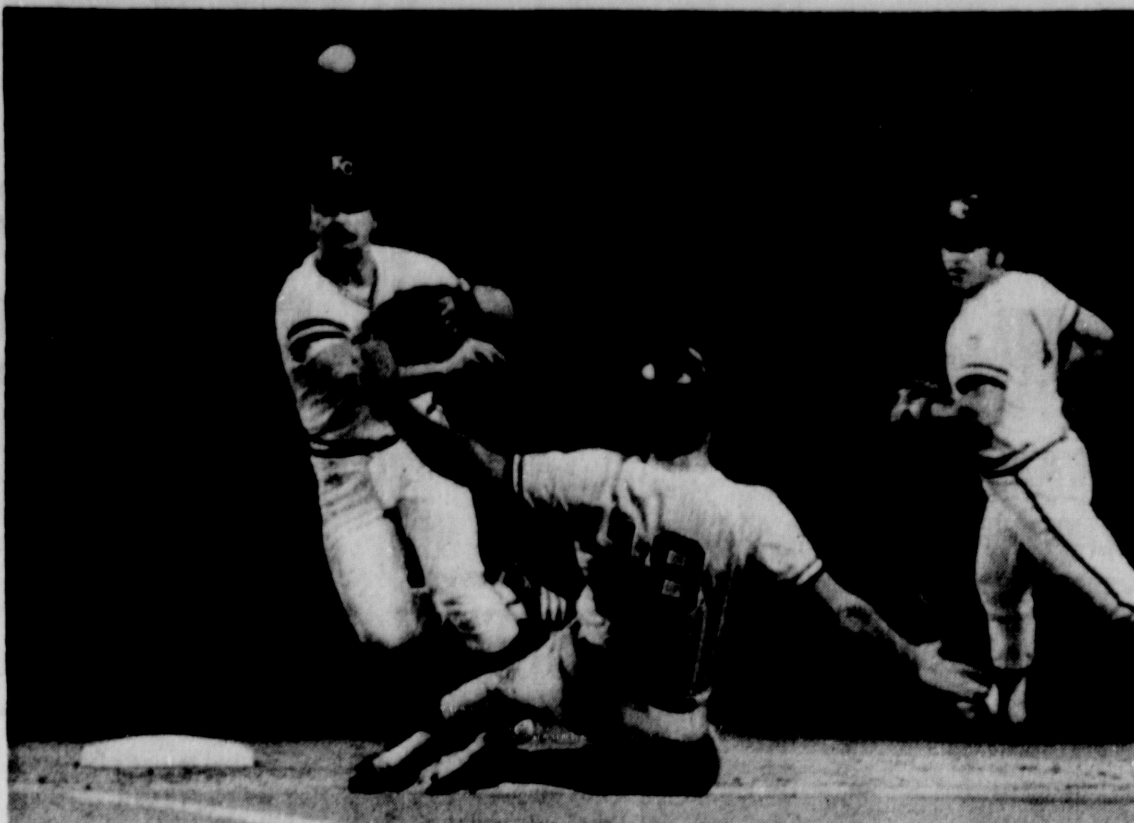

The California team defeated Monterrey, Mexico, 7-2, and Beaverton downed Jefferson City, Mo., 2-1.

Both losers were eliminated as the series field was cut to six surviving teams.

In the first game, California batters rapped the two Mexican pitchers for 10 hits, including three apiece by Tim Flannery and Bill Eaton.

Beaverton scored twice in the first inning and made the runs stand up for the victory. For Jefferson City, in the second inning Jim McCrabb walked, advanced on two wild pitches and scored on a single by Mark Abernathy.

Four undefeated teams meet Tuesday night when Falls Church, Va., faces Lexington, Ky., and Prince Georges, Md., plays Puerto Rico.

Yankee clipper

New York Yankees' Mike Hegan (18) is out at second base on the front end of a double play by the Kansas City Royals in Monday night's game in Royals Stadium. Kansas City's Fred Patek makes the throw to first base for the double play in the fifth. Gene Michael set the play in motion grounding back to pitcher Steve Busby. Cookie Rojas (right) keeps an eye on the play. (UPI)

First MU scrimmage Saturday

Health generally good in Big 8 grid camps

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Half of the Big Eight football clubs opened drills Monday and all coaches reported they were pleased with the spirit and physical condition of their candidates.

Kansas, Kansas State, Missouri and Oklahoma State opened practice sessions, joining Nebraska, which opened drills last week.

At Lawrence, 100 players turned out and Coach Don Fambrough said the club "got a lot accomplished."

Fambrough said he was pleased with the condition and attitude of the squad, and would have the players don pads Thursday for a controlled scrimmage.

Fambrough announced he had moved Todd Morgan to flanker, Rich Kovatch to offensive center and Les Begay to defensive end.

Missouri Coach Al Onofrio said most of his squad reported in good condition. Exceptions were slotback Chuck Link and center Kent Weisenfels, recovering from offseason knee injuries, and end Henry Marshall, who has tendonitis. Link and Weisenfels are expected to be out of practice for at least two weeks, Marshall a week.

The Tigers plan to don full gear Thursday and Friday, then scrimmage Saturday.

Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne took a long look at the third and fourth teams, then ran his club through a scrimmage during the double drills. Osborne said there are at least four of the 11 offensive starting slots still open. He said this was a healthy situation because there were at least two good athletes battling for each of the spots.

Four hours of practice under hot Manhattan temperatures failed to dent the spirit of the opening drills for Coach Vince Gibson's K-State Wildcats.

"It was a real hot opener, particularly the morning session," Gibson said. "Everyone came back in good condition, and the attitude is probably the best that I have seen here."

In Stillwater, Coach Jim Stanley called the attitude of his players "great," adding "all we can do is conditioning and learning drills and to keep from getting bored. One day of padless drills is difficult, but three days—that's misery."

Reserve quarterback Jeff Trout averaged 45.1 seconds for a series of timed 60-yard sprints. Defensive tackle Barry Price was next at 46 flat.

$3,000 in each class

Missouri-owned pace, trot are featured on Wednesday

Wednesday's harness racing program at the Missouri State Fair features the Missouri-Owned Pace and the Missouri-Owned Trot for horses owned within the state. Each race carries a purse of $3,000 and a silver trophy. The winner of the Missouri-Owned Trot will receive the Governor's Trophy, which will be presented by Governor Christopher Bond.

The Missouri Harness Horse Racing Association is sponsoring the trophy for the Missouri-Owned Pace and Ron Jones, secretary of the Missouri State Fair, will present it on their behalf.

Entries in the Trot are: Judy R, owned by J. W. Updyke, Kirksville; Master Toby and Big Byrd owned by Wade Chippis, Raymondville; County Sheriff owned by James Kinnison, Knob Noster; April Key owned by Hampton Ferris, Jefferson City; Mizou Judy owned by Ethan Allan Judy, Sturgeon; Dutchland owned by Jeff Specker, Mayview; and Faustus, winner of this race last year, who has passed from the ownership of the F. M. Townsend Estate, Maryville, to that of Ray Reese, Corning, Iowa. All eight horses are expected to go to the post.

The Missouri-owned Pace's seven entries include Flash Havens and Beautiful Beau owned by Specker; Streaker Gano owned by Dee Pape, Knox City; Freda Sue owned by E. O. Ellis, Maryville; High Changer owned by Alva Tipton, Fillmore; Breezy Counsel owned by Updyke; and Ida's Miss Sun owned by Tom Berry, Fulton.

Also on Wednesday's program is the 2-year-old Trot with eight entries going for a purse of $1,600.

Post time is 1:30 and grandstand admission is free.

ABA, NBA will tangle 25 times in pre-season

NEW YORK (AP) — National Basketball Association teams will play 25 pre-season games against American Basketball Association clubs this fall, according to schedules released today by both leagues.

The first interleague clash—and the first exhibition game in either league—will be Sept. 18 when the New York Nets meet the Philadelphia 76ers in Binghamton, N.Y.

The 17 NBA teams will play a total of 77 exhibition games while the 10 ABA clubs will play for 42 games. The pre-season ends for both leagues Oct. 7 when the Boston Celtics face the Nets at the Nassau Coliseum in Uniondale, N.Y.

This will be the third year of interleague play during the pre-season. The NBA holds a decisive edge in the competition, having won 42 games while losing 17.

Robinson's 2,500 hit lifts Orioles over Twins

BALTIMORE (AP) — It was only a Freudian slip, perhaps, but quite understandable.

Hayden bond set in rape charge

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — Bond has been set at $5,000 for running back Leo Hayden of the St. Louis Cardinals, who has been charged with the rape of a 21-year-old Bloomington woman.

Police said Monday the alleged rape occurred Sunday night in the woman's apartment.

Hayden, 25, was obtained by the Big Red last season from the Minnesota Vikings.

He was arrested last month by McLean County authorities on charges stemming from an alleged bad check passing incident in St. Louis.

A spokesman for the Cardinals said the club would have no comment on Hayden's arrest in Bloomington pending disposition of the charge.

After Brooks Robinson's 2,500th career hit had helped Baltimore's three-run rally in the ninth inning for a 4-3 victory over the Minnesota Twins Monday night, Orioles' Manager Earl Weaver predicted: "Brooks will be in the Hall of Fame five days after he hangs up his glove. He's got to be the greatest third baseman ever to play baseball."

Robinson, who played his first game with the Orioles as an 18-year old in 1955, has done some miraculous things during a distinguished career. But, even he will have to wait five years before being eligible to be enshrined at Cooperstown.

With the count 2-2, Robinson fouled off the next three pitches from reliever Bill Hands and then became the 49th player in major league history to reach the 2,500-hit plateau.

"I have a very slim chance of ever reaching 3,000," said the 36-year-old Robinson. "I have to play about three more years. It's not impossible, but the last 100 hits were the hardest."

Chargers bank a lot on Johnny Unitas

SAN DIEGO AP — The San Diego Chargers are a football team looking for direction. And after last season, the only possible direction is up.

The enigmatic Chargers finished 1972 with an offense and defense that both ranked 10th in the 26-team National Football League. They also finished at the bottom of the American Conference West with a 4-9-1 record.

Yet this is a team with a pair of strong, experienced lines, two outstanding running backs in Mike Garrett and Cid Edwards, and at least an adequate corps of receivers and pass defenders.

"There isn't that much separating us from Oakland, Kansas City and Denver," Svara insists. "We're shooting to win 'the Western Division.'"

He'll be shooting with essentially the same cast, except for one big change. Hadl, the starting quarterback for nine years, is gone, and in his place is the man with the once golden arm, John Unitas.

Svara, a conservative coaching strategist, is a gambling and remarkably successful trader. But he's taking his biggest risk on the 40-year-old Unitas, obtained from Baltimore for $150,000 and a two-year contract reported at more than $400,000.

The coach says if the quarterback's arm and arthritic knees hold up, his experience and leadership will make the Chargers a contender.

If not, Svara professes confidence in Wayne Clark, who has thrown just eight passes in two NFL seasons.

Garrett, who gained 1,031 yards last year, and hard-running Edwards are set at running back, with newly acquired Bob Thomas a capable reserve.

They operate behind one of the NFL's best lines, anchored by all-star guard Walt Sweeney and tackle Terry Owens.

Unitas' prime targets figure to be flanker Gary Garrison and tight end Pettis Norman. Jerry LeVias, a potent deep threat, will go at split end if he's recovered from a knee injury that sidelined him last season. If not, Svara prefers good-blocking Chuck Dicus to good-catching Dave Williams.

The San Diego defense, weak against the pass last year, should improve with the healing of injuries to starters Bob Howard and Chris Fletcher and the acquisition of Ron Smith, who also provides kick-return threat.

Svara's pride, the "castoff" front line of Deacon Jones, Dope Costa, Ron East and Lionel Aldridge, can only improve with the addition of Coy Bacon, who came from Los Angeles in the Hadl trade.

The linebacking is the big defensive question mark. Free spirit Tim Rossovich is sound in the middle, but once-promising Bob Babich has a nagging knee injury and Pete Lazetich is inexperienced. The Chargers would prefer to let veteran Rick Redman coach full-time, but probably won't be able to.

Dennis Partee, who punted and kicked placements last season, begins this season strictly as a punter, with Austrians Gunter Enz and Ray Wersching matching soccer-style boots for the placekicking job.

Thomas stirring another controversy around NFL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Running back Duane Thomas travels with a constant companion—controversy.

In his four years in pro football, the moody but talented running back has been involved in almost as many disputes as times he has carried the ball.

The latest furor over the Washington Redskins' newest player is whether he actually turned his back to the American flag during the playing of the National Anthem, as some Buffalo fans say he did, last Friday night prior to the exhibition game against the Bills.

The Redskins say they don't know whether Thomas turned his back during the playing of the Star-Spangled Banner.

Thomas, as usual, isn't talking.

Near the end of the game, won by Washington 37-21, Thomas was subjected to verbal abuse and was the target for objects thrown from the stands. One was a vacuum bottle.

He retrieved the bottle and took off into the stands after the heckler but was restrained by his teammates as he cleared the lower wall. He was given permission by Coach George Allen to go to the locker room.

with some teammates as escorts.

In leaving the field, Thomas was showered with debris and greeted by boos as he went through an open tunnel under the stands in the end zone. An NFL spokesman said pro football commissioner Pete Rozelle, who attended the game, felt that the fan behavior caused the problem and that the Redskins acted properly when Thomas was abused.

The Buffalo Evening News reported Monday that the fans behind the Washington bench abused Thomas because he did not face the flag during the anthem.

"Everybody on the whole club turned around except Thomas," said Cy Kritzer, News sports columnist. "That's what started it, they (the fans) said."

In other pro football developments, quarterback Randy Johnson of the New York Giants was quoted as saying he wants to be traded. Johnson spent most of last season as the back-up man to Norm Snead, who wound up as the NFL's top passer.

Johnson reportedly plans to ask the Giants to trade him to a club where he will have more chance to play.

Bloomington, Ill. police arrested running back Leo Hayden of the St. Louis Cardinals and charged him with the rape of a 21-year-old woman. Police said the alleged rape took place Sunday night.

Hayden, a 25-year-old former Ohio State star, was held on $5,000 bond pending arraignment.

The Los Angeles Rams signed safety Steve Preece as a free agent. Preece, a five-year veteran out of Oregon State, started nine games with the Denver Broncos last season but was released this summer.

The injury-riddled New Orleans Saints lost the services of Hugo Hollas, one of three injured safeties, when he underwent an operation to repair torn cartilage and ligaments in his knee. There was no immediate word on how long Hollas would be sidelined.

The Saints also dealt away their top ground-gainer last season, Bob Gresham. They sent Gresham to Houston for defensive tackle Leo Brooks, a 285-pounder who was in his fourth year with the Oilers.

Marty Riessen (right) with his big serve and passing game was too much for Toma Ovici, and ran off with a 6-1, 4-6, 6-1, 7-5, victory Monday to give the United States an unbeatable 3-1 lead over Rumania and send the U.S. on to the Davis Cup Challenge Cup round in Cleveland. (UPI)

U.S. captures Interzone title

ALAMO, Calif. (AP) — Stan Smith and Ilie Nastase, of all people, went out and proved that big prize money doesn't necessarily produce the best tennis.

"It was probably one of our best matches," admitted the weary Smith after beating his old rival Nastase 5-7, 6-2, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3 Monday in the final match of the United States' 4-1 victory over Romania in the Davis Cup Interzone Finals.

Each man earned more than $150,000 in tournament prize money last year. They played Monday for relative beer money—the Davis Cup team salaries allotted by their countries—and there was nothing at stake but personal pride.

Marty Riessen had clinched the U.S. victory in the semifinal round of the Davis Cup competition by beating Toma Ovici 6-1, 4-6, 6-1, 7-5 in Monday's first singles match.

But 6,000 fans packed the Round Hill Country Club tennis stadium awaiting the first Smith-Nastase match of the year, and they were rewarded with more than three hours of superb tennis.

"It could have gone either way," said Nastase, and Smith agreed.

The winner said it was better tennis than their memorable 1972 match in the Wimbledon finals, also won by Smith in five sets. "At Wimbledon, we had several spectacular games, but not the consistency we had today. Almost every point was an outright winner."

The U.S. team will be seeking its sixth straight Davis Cup title when it faces Australia or Czechoslovakia in Cleveland this December. It will be the first championship round ever played indoors and at night.

Trapshooting title to Rich Hill man

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP) — A virtual national trapshooting unknown won the class AA championship during the Class Day event that opened the 74th annual Grand American Trapshooting tournament here Monday.

Larry McKinley of Rich Hill, Mo., broke 200 straight targets to tie with two others in a record field of 1,591 entrants. Deadlock with him were Joseph Staats, Buffalo, N.Y., and Dale Millar of Ashville, Ohio.

Millar chose not to compete in the shootoff, and McKinley then took the crown, breaking 96 of 100 to 94 for Staats.

Coryell praises offensive line for protection

NORMAL, Ill. (AP) — Don Coryell, head coach of the St. Louis football Cardinals, has praised the play of the team's offensive line in the 38-17 loss to the Denver Broncos Saturday night.

Coryell said Monday that he had viewed game films taken Saturday and said he believed the offensive line did a "tremendous job" of pass protection during the game, noting that veteran quarterback Jim Hart was not sacked once during the first half when he was protected by the first offensive unit.

"And they're not the ordinary breed of offensive linemen," Coryell said. "They're kind of nasty and mean. Maybe the mean machine would be a good name for them."

The coach said he was also pleased with the play of rookie quarterback Gary Keithley, who hit nine of 15 passes. Coryell said Keithley displayed poise and confidence when he did not let himself get rattled after being involved in two costly fumbles.

played with coaches, the Giants should be unbeatable.

San Francisco has gone into extra innings 11 times and 11 times come up with an extra-inning victory. Monday night the Giants took the air out of the Expos' balloon in the 11th with a 6-4 decision.

"Maybe we should start in the 10th inning," said Manager Charlie Fox, who has made all the right moves when the game has gotten over nine innings old.

This time the right move was going with old age. 43-year-old player-pitching coach Don McMahon.

"Do as I say, but pay special attention to what I do" should be the credo of McMahon, who entered a tie game in the 10th with the bases loaded and got the out. He retired the Expos in order in the 11th for his first victory of the season.

McMahon, who began his professional career in 1950, wasn't the only veteran to shine in Montreal. Ron Fairly, whose career only goes back to 1958, slugged eighth and 10th-inning homers to pull the Expos into 3-3 and 4-4 ties.

But in the end it was the young legs of Gary Matthews, born in 1950, that untied the game for good. Matthews tripled and raced home with the tie-breaking run when Larry Lintz bobbled the relay in the 11th.

In the other National League action, Pittsburgh punished Houston 10-2 and Cincinnati outlasted the Mets in 16 innings 8-3.

Reds 8, Mets 3 Johnny Bench didn't expect to be in the 16th inning of a baseball game with the Mets and he certainly didn't expect a chance to bat.

"I'm glad they pitched to me," he said, after delivering a run-scoring single which broke a 3-3 tie and started the Reds on to their 8-3 extra-inning victory. "But I figured they'd walk me for sure."

Dal Maxvill walked in the sixth after Richard, now 5-1, had retired 16 straight Pirates. In the seventh, he took care of the first two batters before Al Oliver lined a single through the box, just out of the reach of Richard's desperate lunge.

Oliver connected again in the ninth after Richard had issued his second and third walks of the game, facing a two-run double into left-center field.

Even simple hands present problems in technique. Any competent bridge player will make five spades by ruffing his third heart in dummy; leading twice up to dummy's king-queen of diamonds and once up to his own king of clubs. Furthermore, there is no need to take any care at all since all suits break. Nevertheless an expert would surely give the hand some study before playing to trick two. Then he would cash one high trump.

His next play would be the second high heart. Then he would ruff his last heart with dummy's queen of trumps just to guard against the possibility of an overruff.

Then he would draw trumps and go about the business of leading diamonds toward dummy and clubs toward his own hand.

Why did South open with one spade, not one no-trump? Because his hand is too big for a no-trump opening. He has 18 high card points that include a strong five-card suit and such hands represent too much trick taking potential for a one no-trump opening.

Drug overdose can harm memory

Dear Dr. Lamb — Two and a half years ago I took an overdose of barbiturates. I was in the hospital two weeks, but only remember three days of it. Since then my memory is terrible. I can't remember even simple things for very long. Before that my memory was perfect.

Now I want to sign up for night school to get my diploma, but I want to know, will it pay to spend the money since I might not be able to remember things until I took the test. Is my problem caused from the pills I took, and, if so, is there anything I can do to improve my memory?

I was not on dope. I got the pills from a doctor who was treating me for nerves. I have not seen a doctor since I left the hospital. Would it help if I did?

Dear Reader — With overdoses of sleeping pills, and similar problems, it's not always possible to determine what degree of complete recovery will occur until after the acute crisis is over. If the person has a shock-like reaction, or anything else happens that decreases the blood supply of oxygen to the brain for a prolonged period of time, there is a possibility of brain damage. This can affect a person's memory and the personality afterwards.

Fortunately, there is continued recovery of even the memory and personality factors for some time after the initial crisis. Even so, if the crisis is too bad, and the brain doesn't get enough oxygen for too long a period of time, or is exposed to toxins in any way for a long period of time, brain damage can result.

This point is not always understood by people, and they think only of the difference between life or death, which occurs in such situations. The truth is, there are other complications that can occur, even if the person survives.

Let me use a good simple example. If a person tried to commit suicide by carbon monoxide poisoning, such as running the car in a closed garage or similar techniques, the carbon monoxide poisoning will decrease the oxygen available to the brain. The carbon monoxide combines with the hemoglobin in the red blood cells and makes it impossible for them to carry oxygen. If the person is rescued before they have completed the act, and the brain didn't get oxygen for a long period of time, there may be permanent brain damage.

The only way to determine the degree and importance of brain damage is by psychological testing. Incidentally, it may be possible to improve your memory skills by certain types of memory exercises.

You are entirely right that it's a good idea to find out what your capabilities are, and what problems you might encounter before starting to resume your schooling. You should see your doctor and perhaps he can arrange for you to have psychological testing to determine if you really have a memory problem, or something else can be done to help you improve your memory response and, hence, learning ability. I would encourage you to do this as you may really be able to do something useful for yourself.

Brother claims the body of suffocated man

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The body of an Oklahoma man was claimed Monday, two days after he apparently suffocated when the trash container in which he was sleeping was picked up by a garbage truck and emptied into a landfill.

The body of Ray E. Lillard, 50, was claimed by his brother, Thomas Lillard of Kansas City. He said his brother had recently spent two days at his home. Thomas Lillard characterized his brother as a drifter who occasionally showed up in Kansas City. Acquaintances said he frequently slept in metal trash bins.

Lillard was born in Henryetta, Okla., and had stayed in Kansas City from time to time since 1959. He was an unemployed boilermaker.

Rare instrument shown at Fair's 'Long Branch'

Ever hear of a Seeburg Orchestrarian? No, it's not new-fangled juke box or highly sophisticated stereo system but it does come close to being an orchestra.

The Seeburg Orchestrarian is a rare Nickolodion-type player piano which became famous, if not unforgettable, for its presence in nearly every opera house and tavern during the "Gay Nineties."

And just to show that nostalgia is not to be overlooked the Sedalia Jaycees have brought one of the 11 remaining Seeburg "G" models to the Missouri State Fair where it holds a place of honor and distinction in the Long Branch Family Saloon.

The Seeburg is owned by Bob Hellyier, Chariton, Iowa, who found it stored in an old theater in Lucas, Iowa, five years ago.

"It was an old theater piano that sat there for probably 60 years," Hellyier says. "All the rubber in it had rotted away so I rebuilt it."

Taking time out from his duties as bartender at the Long Branch, Hellyier explained that the piano was made around the turn of the century and includes two drums, a triangle, mandolin, flute pipes, and violin pipes. It really does sound like a small orchestra.

The rebuilt Seeburg is valued at $15,000 to $20,000, according to Hellyier, who also owns an ornate antique ice cream bar which his wife is currently displaying at the Iowa State Fair.

Hellyier knows of only one other identical model "G"

Fighting 'hot spot'

A firefighter uses a chain saw as he works to contain a "hot spot" in the 12,000 acre fire in the Stanislaus National Forest near Sonora, Calif. According to a U.S. Forest Service spokesman, the fire has destroyed timber valued at $50 million. Thirty-four major fires have burned through 110,000 acres of timber and grass in eight western states and Canada since Aug. 15 and 13 of the fires are still out of control. (UPI)

Officials probing assassination plot

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Federal and city law enforcement officials are saying little publicly about a "possible conspiracy" to assassinate President Nixon during a brief visit here.

One federal source close to the investigation of the alleged plot said Monday it should be taken seriously even though nothing happened.

"It's something you shouldn't pooh-pooh," he said. "You'll just have to watch developments of the next few days."

But a source in the New Orleans Police Department commented, "This is going to be another one of those investigations which just drags on forever. I think it's been badly blown out of proportion."

Both sources declined the use of their names.

Police Supt. Clarence Giarrusso said, "For approximately one week, we have been working on an attempt to assassinate the President. But as of now, we do not have sufficient evidence to put this in perspective."

Giarrusso refused to say whether more than one person had been involved in the alleged conspiracy, whether an organized group was involved or why the conspirators wanted to kill Nixon.

The alleged assassination conspiracy prompted Nixon to cancel a five-block motorcade down Canal Street on Monday as he arrived here to speak before the convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Instead, the President motored directly from the airport to the Rivergate Convention Center.

Meanwhile, the Secret Service filed a warrant against former New Orleans policeman Edwin M. Gaudet, charging that he had threatened Nixon's life in comments made in a Canal Street drugstore last week.

Secret Service agents said they exchanged gunfire Monday night near Arroyo Hondo, N.M., with a man they believed to be Gaudet, 29.

Authorities said they had no reason to connect Gaudet with the alleged assassination conspiracy.

The Secret Service said it warned Nixon Sunday night that it had uncovered a "possible conspiracy to assassinate the President" and that he agreed to change his route into the city.

But when he arrived at the Rivergate without incident, Nixon mingled briefly with a crowd gathered outside the building.

Minutes later, he drew cheers from some 4,500 members of the VFW as he acknowledged for the first time he had ordered the secret bombing of Cambodia in 1969.

The major sources of solid refuse are bottles, cans and junked cars.

About 95 per cent of man's technological achievements are estimated to have been made in the last 20 years.

Mandatory fuel allocation warned

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House energy chief John Love has told oil executives some of them have shown "callous disregard" for regular customers under the present voluntary program for allocating scarce fuels.

"Gentlemen, you must make this voluntary allocation plan work," Love said in a White House briefing of industry representatives.

Otherwise, petroleum might be brought under mandatory controls that might never be fully removed, said Love, director of the White House Energy Policy Office.

The industry was briefed on administration fuel-allocation policies last Thursday, and the White House made the transcript available Monday.

Since last winter's shortage of heating oil and natural gas, the nation has faced a chronic threat of fuel shortages.

The voluntary allocation program is designed to make sure any shortage is shared fairly by maintaining previous distribution patterns. But Love said it has not always worked that way.

"There have been a number of instances of apparently callous disregard for traditional and long-standing supply relationships," he said.

"Apparently... some purchasers have received far greater proportional allocations of fuels than have others."

Love said, "I may contact some of you individually in the near future to ask about a particular situation."

Fuel distribution must be approved, particularly in New England, the upper Midwest, Colorado and Missouri, he said.

Love was joined by Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton and Commerce Secretary Fredrick B. Dent in telling the oil suppliers that, unless they resolve the fuel distribution problems fairly and voluntarily, public opinion may move Congress to impose a mandatory allocation program.

DRINK AND COLLECT ... LONDON (AP) — A beer mat is not just a square of printed cardboard they put under your glass of suds in a British pub. It's a collector's item. One recently changed hands for $12.

Tegestology is the study of beer mats, and derives its name from the Latin word for a mat.

All over Britain people scour pubs and clubs for new or rare beer mats to add to their collections. There is even a British Beer Mat Collectors' Society, with more than 700 members.

While the possibility of mandatory allocations was attributed to Congress, the White House itself had proposed a mandatory program last May 9 "for comment only."

Love said then, and repeated at the industry briefing, that the administration wants to avoid mandatory allocation of fuels.

Love said heating oil could run short this winter if severe weather puts heavy demands on fuels in the United States or Europe.
